The Consell de Formentera reports that today marks the return to summer school programming for a group of children at the Sant Francesc Escola d'Estiu campus who were sent home Thursday 20 August amid concern over a possible exposure to Covid-19. Families learned yesterday that their children would be able to resume normal attendance at the summer school from today after the test results of the individual in question came back negative.

As for the situation at the municipal sailing school, local government is awaiting results from screenings late last week of approximately eighty students. The second group of Escola de Vela instructors will undergo PCR testing today, the results of which will be available in the coming days.
