

The Formentera Office of Interior reports that today and tomorrow the Formentera Local Police will offer its first information day at Marc Ferrer Secondary School. "The goal of this meeting is for pupils to discover the functions of local law enforcement, to know that the Formentera Local Police is a neighbourhood force and that, for those interested, it is an option for future employment", explained Josep Marí, Councillor of Interior.

Today and tomorrow between 8.30am and 2.00pm, eight local police officers will speak to pupils in years three and four of ESO and years one and two of baccalaureate. The officers will describe a normal day on the force and a bit about their day-to-day work. In the courtyard there is a display featuring drones, speed radar, digital tools for database consultation, breathalyser tests and other law enforcement equipment. The canine unit will also perform a demonstration and youth will have a chance to see the fleet of motorcycles, cars and vans.
