

Yesterday, Monday 3 August a throng of art-lovers celebrated the opening of Nieves López-Nilo's Oceànica installation. Born in León, for years López-Nilo has kept a hat in France and her espardenyes on Formentera. The large format photo exhibition renders homage to the posidònia seagrass for which the artist professes a deep love. She captures the movement and colour of the marine plant that contrast so patently with the blue of the surrounding water. The gathering of prints is on view at the exhibition hall of the ajuntament vell through next 14 August, mornings 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and afternoons 7 to 9 p.m.
