The Consell de Formentera has begun the process of recruiting health care assistants to work in the island's nursing home. Offers can be viewed on the Consell de Formentera website and will remain open until 4 January.

Candidates must be accredited nursing assistants, have completed intermediate social-health care training or an equivalent vocational programme, or hold specialised or professional certification in any of the these areas.

Work at the old people's home, or residència, will include tending to basic personal hygiene, common care needs and the material needs of each user, and feeding, as needed.
