

Today Ana Juan, president of the Consell de Formentera, sent a letter to Francesc Antich, president of Port Authority of the Balearic Islands [APB], requesting an "urgent face-to-face meeting to tackle the current situation of uncertainty and ongoing problems at the port of La Savina".

Speaking for herself and on behalf of the entire cabinet, President Juan has already expressed concern at recent APB board meetings and now hopes to table several issues "requiring immediate action due to the lack of solutions in sight", as she has pointed out. These problems "affect different sectors, companies and residents of the island, such as the Formentera Fishermen's Guild [Confraria de Pescadors], concessions on the harbour wharves, and the current situation with charter companies and single-day maritime excursions".
