

Earlier today, the Formentera Council's office of infrastructure reported on the recent removal of 25 telephone poles along camí de Can Marianet, a road which starts at the camí Vell de la Mola and cuts south, passing alongside la torre des Pi des Català before ending its run at Migjorn beach.

Together with similar operations along camí des Simonets and the reasphalted portion of the es Cap highway, pole-removal along camí de Can Marianet was intended to improve to the natural beauty of the Formentera countryside.

El camí de Can Marianet was repaired in 2002. At that time, the decision was made to underground adjacent utility cables, a move that would allow for the eventual removal of the utility poles themselves. After many requests, telephone and light utility companies recently acquiesced.
