

Diego Encinas will be on hand at 8.00pm, Thursday 16 September, offering visitors of Marià Villangómez Library a close-up of his book “Perdidos en las islas”. In the author’s first novel, the communication between two friends provides structure and shape to a strange adventure: the search for an illusion which one half of the pair lost long ago. Diego Encinas Cerezo (Madrid, 1961) has written two novels, two short story collections and literary memoirs spanning a decade.
